Dealing in Securities: The Law and Regulation of Sales and Trading in Europe

Christos Nifadopoulos

Addresses the liberalisation of national authorisation regimes across Europe in the wake of MiFID II and Brexit, and attempts by the EU to harmonise centrally the single market authorisation regime.

The book reviews the details of the activities of sales, sales trading, trading and execution, what they each constitute, the potential conflicts of interest for a firm and how to manage such conflicts. Each of these activities is mapped against specific regulatory obligations, such as best execution, pre- and post-trade transparency, inducements, dealing commissions rules, the short selling regime and shareholder disclosures, depicting the obligations schematically to assist the practitioner.

Employment and Commercial Disputes: The International Aspects

Paul Nicholls QC

A guide to the conflict of laws dealing with jurisdiction and applicable law in commercial and employment-related cases enabling practitioners to assimilate and understand the rules which apply in cases that have an international element.

It states the law applicable in particular to both commercial and employment cases. This covers both High Court claims but also, in its employment section, statutory claims involving employees who work abroad or otherwise may be said to lack a connection with the UK. It uses examples to augment the statement of the law and offers tactical and strategic guidance based on real cases.

AI on Trial

Mark Deem & Peter Warren

This book looks at the questions surrounding AI and its future.

For example:

- Who owns AI?
- Is AI a product in its own right?
- Should AI have rights and responsibilities?
- What are the status, capacity and authority issues relating to AI?
- Is AI racist?
- What are the issues (legal and ethical) created by implicit bias of coders and data sets?
- Can AI be used to gain a competitive advantage?
- Can we trust AI?

Laid out in the style of a trial, the book takes an innovative approach to the most innovative of technological areas.

Environmental Protection, Principles and Governance: The Environment Act 2021

Francis Taylor Building

Brexit involves a break from the environmental regulation regime of the EU, including the oversight by the European Commission. A large proportion of existing UK environmental law and policy derives from the EU, with implementation largely monitored and enforced by EU institutions such as the European Commission.

The Environment Act 2021 creates a new regime of environmental policy for the UK, together with a new system of targets, monitoring and reporting on issues such as air quality, water, waste and biodiversity. It also creates an entirely new regulator with wide-ranging enforcement powers, and a new form of litigation: environmental review.

Debattista on Bills of Lading in Commodities Trade

Charles Debattista & Francis Hornyold-Strickland

Split into three parts covering (i) documentary control over the goods, (ii) risk, title to sue and property and (iii) tender of an applicable bill of lading, the book provides a clear understanding of the complex connections between the contracts of sale, carriage and letter of credit.

There is new material on the relationship between the physical and documentary duties on sellers in CIF and FOB sales; the relationship between the opening of a letter of credit and the existence of a sale contract; who is a lawful holder of a bill of lading for the purposes of establishing a buyer's title to sue and time of shipment being of the essence.

Mediation Behaviour

Why We Act Like We Do

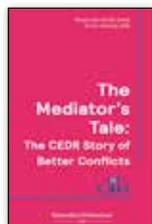

Stephen Walker

What is conflict? How does it arise? How can we prevent it?

Resolving conflict can end up costing the parties involved a considerable amount of money not only in relation to solicitors' and barristers' fees, court fees, expert witness' fees, etc, but also in time spent working on the resolution. There is also no guarantee that these costs will be fully recovered in any settlement agreement.

It is therefore very important for parties in conflict to understand how to negotiate in order to reach the best outcome for all those involved and the main part of this is understanding the psychology of conflict negotiation.

Connected and Associated: Insolvency and Pensions Law

David Pollard

This book is the first looking in detail at the meaning and ambit of the 'connected', 'associated' and 'control' tests used in the Insolvency Act 1986 in sections 249 and 435 and incorporated by reference in pensions legislation.

These tests are important in insolvency law in relation to issues such as voting in company voluntary arrangements and time limits for reversal or clawback of pre insolvency transactions (e.g. undue preferences or transactions at an under value). These definitions in the Insolvency Act 1986 have become of particular importance when incorporated in pensions legislation.

Disciplinary Procedures in the Statutory Professions

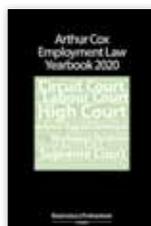

Simon Mills, Colm Scott-Byrne & Aideen Ryan

Various disciplinary and regulatory bodies have different rules, powers and procedures, even while sharing a basic legal framework. This book allows a practitioner who is appearing before such a body to prepare their case by setting out what powers the body has, what evidence it can hear, the form the procedure will take, whether they can call witnesses, and what sanctions it can impose.

This book was the first title to consider the specific question of the regulation of statutory professions in Ireland including architects, surveyors, teachers, pharmacists, health and social care professionals and accountants.

Provides an in-depth analysis of the tax ramifications from Brexit, in both the UK and EU Member States.

It is split into two sections. Part One contains subject-specific chapters, dealing with VAT, custom duties and excises and State aid legislation. Part

Two is split into country chapters, dealing with the tax ramifications for inbound and outbound investment in single jurisdictions. The assumption taken by the authoring team is that following the end of the transitional period at the end of December 2020, the UK will have third country status and will not be part of the European Economic area.

Automatic Exchange of Information Handbook

John Hiddleston

This title provides a commentary on the UK law and regulations relating to the exchange of information. The focus is on two main areas:

- i) The US Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act (FATCA) which requires UK financial institutions to provide specified details about their US account holders.
- ii) The OECD Common Reporting Standard (CRS) which is similar to FATCA except that typically it requires UK financial institutions to report about their non-UK account holders (or vice versa). Over 100 countries have signed up to the Common Reporting Standard.
